POWER COMPANY IS HIT

Chief Sounds Warning That Corporations Must Act In Near Future

WASHINGTON, July 21—(UP)—Chairman William O. Douglas of the securities and exchange commission warned public utilities today that the government is prepared to enforce the 1935 Holding Company act unless the industry complies with its provisions voluntarily.

He disavowed any plans for "cracking down" on the industry, but left no doubt that the commission would not countenance stalling by utility holding companies in conforming with that part of the act which requires simplification of their corporate structures and geographic integration of their holdings.

First Action Taken

He revealed his stand at a press conference, called to announce that SEC had moved, for the first time under the so-called "death sentence" provision of the act, to invoke the integration sections against the Utilities Power & Light Corp. Under that section the commission has been given a mandate by congress to determine, after proper hearing, the manner and extent to which the properties and business of a utility holding company should be confined to those necessary or appropriate to the operation of an integrated public utility system.

Utilities Power & Light Corp. is in the process of reorganization under section 77B of the Federal Bankruptcy act. Douglas said that the commission felt it would be wiser to have the corporation meet the requirements of the holding company act before some conventional reorganization plan is approved by the court.

He emphasized that the SEC's action must not be taken as an indication that a "crack down" campaign is under way, but, he added, emphatically:

Law Taken Seriously

"If anybody has any doubt that the commission takes section 11B (the death sentence clause) seriously, this ought to dispel that doubt. We do take it seriously. It does not at all mean that tomorrow we are going to move against another company, and day after tomorrow move against still another company, and so on. What our next step will be depends on (Continued on Page Eight)

Japs Plan Arms Show To Frighten Russians

TOKYO, July 21.—(UP)—Japan plans a troop demonstration before the hill on the Manchukuo-Siberia frontier which Russian soldiers have occupied, allegedly in Manchukuoan territory, a foreign office spokesman said today.

The spokesman continued to express the opinion that unless the Russians, impressed by the planned demonstration, withdrew from the hill it might be necessary for Japanese troops to drive them away.

In a dispatch from Hsinking, the newspaper Yomiuri reported that Manchukuan authorities had abandoned efforts to settle the incident by diplomatic means.

JAPS FALL BACK BEFORE CHINESE COUNTER DRIVE

SHANGHAI, July 21.—(UP)—Chinese military authorities asserted today that their troops had opened a successful counter attack south of Hankow, driving the Japanese from strategic positions near Pengtseh.

The counter-attack was started, it was asserted, despite increasing pressure on the Chinese lines from reinforced Japanese and daily bombings of the entire military district as far up the Yangtze river as Hankow, 160 miles away.

The Chinese claimed they occupied the strategic highlands overlooking Pengtseh, east of Hukow, cutting Japanese communications between Natang and Pengtseh.

DOGGONE, THE DOG CATCHER'S DOG IS GONE

The dog catcher's dog is gone, doggone, and Harry Riffle doesn't know where to find him. The county keeper of unwanted and unlicensed canines reports that his three year old Boston bulldog, answering to the name of Mike, is missing, and he suspects foul play.

Mike had been scampering about the Riffle residence, 318 S. Pick-away street, every day. He had been having his own way about things, because everyone liked him and he seemed to like everyone in turn. Then Mike disappeared.

The dog catcher believes that Mike might have become too friendly with some passerby and is now being kept in a new home.

DOCTOR CRITICS FAIL TO DAMPEN HEALTH PLANS

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(UP)—Despite strong opposition of the American Medical Association, government leaders predicted today that the New Deal's proposed $850,000,000 national health program would be enacted into law.

Formulated by the president's committee to coordinate health and welfare activities, the plan was the center of heated debate at the three-day national health conference which ended here yesterday.

Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the United States public health service said that the next session of congress probably would be asked to adopt legislation containing some or all of the program.

The plan calls for the expansion and strengthening of public health services and the insurance of workers against illness and loss of wages.

HERO OF WRONG DIRECTION HOP SAILS JULY 30

Corrigan Books Passage For New York On American Liner Manhattan

ANXIOUS TO VISIT KING

Aviator Determined That Antiquated Plane Must Return With Him

DUBLIN, July 21.—(UP)—Douglas Gorce Corrigan, hero of a "wrong direction" flight from New York to Ireland, booked a passage home today aboard the United States liner Manhattan, sailing from Queenstown on July 30.

The Manhattan will arrive on August 5 in New York where Corrigan will be welcomed in the manner reserved for heroes.

It was assumed that Corrigan would take along his antiquated $900 airplane, in which he has so much pride that he said "She's good enough to fly around the world."

Corrigan was reluctant to end his "party" because he was having a good time and there were a lot of things he would like to see and do. One of the things he said he would like to do would be to visit London and have a chat with King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Future Undecided

But he was not sure just what he would do. Nor was the world sure either since he turned up in Dublin after leaving New York's Floyd Bennett airport ostensibly for Los Angeles.

The "unemployed" California airplane mechanic appeared determined that his beloved nine-year-old "crate" would go with him on the Manhattan. Irish authorities gave it back to him after he promised not to attempt a flight back across the Atlantic.

There were reports around Balldonnel airport, where Corrigan landed Monday with the nonchalant announcement, "I just came from New York," that the nine-year-old "crate" would be exhibited at the Smithsonian Institute (Continued on Page Eight)

FEDERAL AGENTS GUARD PRESIDENT'S GRANDSON

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—(UP)—Secret service agents guarded the son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., today.

One secret service man who was assigned to guard young Roosevelt when his father became president, shared the vigil with two operatives from the Philadelphia bureau. A bureau official said the guard was "routine."

The baby was born Tuesday in Philadelphia lying-in hospital to the president's third son and the former Ethel DuPont.

"Pick-a-Back" Plane Completes Atlantic Hop

CAPT. A. S. WILCOCKSON AND PLANE

IN THE first test of its kind, the "pick-a-back" plane that took off from Ireland for a flight to New York, has crossed the Atlantic and will reach its goal today. It landed at Montreal before noon. The 2,850 mile westward crossing of the Atlantic was made at an average speed of about 145 miles an hour. The flying contraption is really two planes, with the larger one, the flying boat Maia, carrying the smaller plane, the Mercury, on its back. When sufficient height and distance is reached the Mercury is detached from the larger plane and continues on across the Atlantic. The "pick-a-back" idea, introduced by British designers, is to conserve the gas supply of the ocean plane. Capt. A. S. Wilcockson, who is at the controls, is also pictured above.

LABOR UNITES FOR BARKLEY

Workers' Chieftains Turn Thumbs Down On Gov. Happy Chandler

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(UP)

Organized labor united today to support Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley for renomination against Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler in the Kentucky Democratic primary.

President William Green and the American Federation of Labor joined President Roosevelt, the Committee for Industrial Organization, the Railway Labor Executives' Association, and labor's Non-Partisan League in urging Barkley's reelection. The primary is Aug. 6.

The contest between Barkley and Chandler has been bitterly contested. The result will be an outright test of New Deal strength inasmuch as Mr. Roosevelt gave unequivocal endorsement of Barkley during his recent trans-continental trip.

Green's action marked one of the few instances in which the divided labor camps have united for political action. The other case is in Maryland, where all labor groups are backing Rep. David J. Lewis against Sen. Millard E. Tydings and the Democratic nomination.

Green announced the A. F. of L.'s endorsement of the senate majority leader, who, he said, "voted favorably with a single exception upon all measures sponsored and approved" by the federation.

A. A. A. APPLAUDS FOR COMPLIANCE WITH WHEAT CUT

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(UP)—Agricultural adjustment administrator H. R. Tolley appealed to farmers today for compliance with the 55,000,000-acre wheat allotment program for 1939 to prevent repetition of a price-depressing, bumper crop.

The A. A. A. has announced the division of the acreage goal by states, which later will be divided among counties, and eventually among individual farmers who, by limiting their wheat acres, will obtain farm benefit payments.

Each state was awarded 74.36 percent of its average seeded acreage, plus the amount diverted under previous A. A. A. programs in the last 10 years, with adjustment for the trend in acreage during the last three years.

"These acreage allotments offer farmers of the country an opportunity to cooperate to bring wheat supplies back nearer normal," Tolley said.

STRIKE SCENE CALM UNDER LAW OF GUARDSMEN

NEWTON, Ia., July 21.—(UP)—National guardsmen, with orders to use machine guns or bayonets if necessary, maintained peace in strike-torn Newton today as the Maytag Washing Machine Company plant remained closed under gubernatorial edict.

Strict martial law prevailed. Steel-helmeted troops banned all assemblages in this industrial community of 11,000 persons. So strict was the ban that guardsmen broke up a church picnic in a grove just outside the city limits.

The state liquor store was closed. Beer taverns were not affected. All residents of the city were forbidden to carry firearms except by special permission of the commanding officers of the militia.

FALSE TEETH PLAY HIM FALSE AND SAVE LIFE

CHICAGO, July 21.—(UP)

John Snopek, 54, a janitor, complained today that his false teeth were untrue to him.

Last night, Snopek tried to end his life with a .22 calibre rifle. He shot himself under the chin. But the flight of the bullet was halted by the hard upper plate of his false teeth.

Hospital physicians said that saved Snopek's life.

FRANCE EXHIBITS HER WAR MIGHT

PARIS, July 21.—(UP)

France gave King George VI a vivid picture of her military might today, to back up her demonstrations of friendship and her expression of willingness to co-operate in the problems of European diplomacy.

Fifty thousand soldiers, sons of the men who at Verdun immortalized the phrase "they shall not pass," paraded in the King's honor up the broad Avenue de Paris at Versailles.

It was the biggest military procession in France since the victory parade after the World War. It was the biggest ever accorded the head of a foreign state, and it matched in its impressiveness the gigantic displays which the totalitarian countries have made familiar.

Premier Edouard Daladier, Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, and Sir Alexander Cadogan, British permanent foreign under-secretary, had discussed Adolf Hitler's proposals for settlement of the Czechoslovak minority problem, the most dangerous political situation of the day. France had agreed to press Czechoslovakia, her ally, to hasten delivery of the text of a proposed minor (Continued on Page Eight)

OFFICE HOLDERS NOT IMMUNE TO TAX, IS RULING

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(UP)

The justice department in a formal opinion today advised the treasury that legislation providing reciprocal federal and state taxation of government salaries and securities is constitutional.

In an opinion written by Assistant Attorney General James W. Morris in charge of the tax division, the department said that such legislation, recommended by President Roosevelt in a special message to congress last session, would come within the purview of the 16th amendment which authorizes congress to tax income "from whatever source."

"It is believed that there can no longer be found in the decisions of the supreme court any rule of continuing authority which would raise a constitutional prohibition against applying the federal income tax to state bondholders, officers and employees," the report said.

MERCURY DUE AT NEW YORK IN AFTERNOON

Pick-a-Back Craft Makes Brief Stop At Montreal On Way To U. S.

FLIGHT OF 2,850 MILES

Port Washington Prepares To Welcome Captain C. T. Bennett

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., July 21.—(UP)—British Imperial Airways officials said today that the transatlantic "pick-a-back" plane Mercury was expected here at about 4 p. m. E.D.T.

Capt. Donald C. T. Bennett, pilot of the four-engined seaplane, landed at Montreal, completing a non-stop 2850 mile flight from Foynes, Ireland, at 11:19 a. m. E.D.T.

He was asked to time his departure from Montreal, Airways officials said, so that he will arrive of Manhattan bay here after the day's Bermuda plane movements have been completed.

Imperial Airways' flying boat Caveller was scheduled to leave for Bermuda before noon and the Bermuda clipper of Pan-American Airways was due here at about 3 p. m.

The four-engined plane made the flight, one of several survey hops planned by Imperial Airways this summer, in 20 hours and 19 minutes, averaging about 141 miles an hour in the face of light headwinds. The Mercury took off from its mother plane, the Maia, at 3 p. m. E.D.T. yesterday.

A crowd of more than 500 persons watched the ship drop to the St. Lawrence river and glide to the Boucherville air base where an experienced crew waited to refuel the plane for the 330-mile flight to Port Washington, N. Y.

Half Ton of Cargo

The plane, upper component of the short-mayo composite aircraft, was laden with half a ton of newspapers and photographs and newsgirls of the visit of King and Queen Elizabeth to Paris.

Officials of Canadian National Airways and Trans-Canada Airlines, government inspectors and customs men greeted Pilot Bennett and Radio Operator A. J. Coster as they climbed out of the plane.

ICKES ASSAILS ROSENDAHL FOR HELIUM ADVISE

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(UP)—Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes today accused Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, naval dirigible expert, of inconsistency in recommending that the United States sell helium supplies to Germany.

Ickes said he has not revised his position in opposing the request of Germany for sufficient supplies of the non-inflammable gas to inflate the Reich's new dirigible which now is nearing completion. Ickes blocked efforts of Dr. Hugo Eckener earlier this year to procure an export license for the gas.

Rosendahl, on returning recently from Germany, said he saw no military significance in helium exports to Germany—the issue on which Ickes blocked the export license.

Ickes was bitterly critical of Rosendahl's statements.

"After being wined and dined he comes back here and says helium has no military value," Ickes said.

The Girls will make their home at Rock Island, Ill.

COUNCIL READS ORDINANCE ON STREET LITTER

Solons Make No Comment As Waste Paper Bill Passes Initial Stage

PENALTIES ARE PROVIDED

Handbills May Not Be Placed In Autos Without Consent Of Motorist

Initial steps toward elimination of a "waste paper menace," so-called by Service Director L. E. Miller, were taken in council Wednesday evening when an anti-littering ordinance was read for the first time. Two more readings are necessary before council votes on the measure.

Read by Councilman W. M. Reid, who served in the absence of Clerk Fred Nicholas, the proposal was placed in the record without councilman expressing opinion.

The ordinance, similar to one being considered in Chillicothe, would eliminate distribution of handbills and other advertising matter in public places and in and on parked automobiles. Violators would face possible fines of $5 to $50.

The ordinance's text follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any person to distribute, place, throw, or knowingly drop, or cause to be distributed, placed, thrown or dropped in or on a street, highway, alley, or public grounds of the city of Circleville, Ohio, or place or cause to be placed any paper, cards, handbills, blotters, posters or advertising samples in or on any parked or moving automobile, truck, or other vehicle without the owner's consent while such an auto, truck or other vehicle is in or on any street, highway, alley or public grounds in the city of Circleville."

Mr. Reid, who also serves as chairman of the council ordinance committee, said that the service director urged that the ordinance be presented. "His department is having much difficulty in keeping streets from being littered because of the handbill practice," Mr. Reid said.

He said, too, that many complaints had been received by councilmen from housewives who find their porches and yards littered by the pamphlets and papers passed from house to house.

Second reading of the ordinance is scheduled at the next regular meeting of council on August 3.

AUTO HALTS ON HIGHWAY AND CRASH FOLLOWS

A three car collision, caused when an unidentified motorist stopped his automobile in the middle of Route 23, five miles north of Circleville, at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday left all three vehicles damaged, but no one injured.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the accident was the strangest he had ever investigated.

The mystery driver, who was gone from the scene before any one could learn his identity or check the license number of his car, stopped for no apparent reason, W. E. Whitney of 449 S. Pine street, Lima, told the sheriff. Whitney was driving toward Circleville behind the unknown's car. A semi-trailer truck was moving northward and Whitney was forced to stop. When he was parked behind the "mystery" automobile E. F. Rowley of Lexington, O., Route 1, drove up behind the Lima car.

Leslie E. Shepler, Kingston hardware dealer, driving south, apparently failed to see the cars parked in front of him and his automobile crashed against the Rowley automobile, throwing it into a ditch on its side, then went on to sideswipe the Whitney car. Mr. Rowley was the only person injured slightly. He told the sheriff that his neck hurt him.

Shepler had been in Columbus and was driving home.

Whitney was accompanied by his wife, Lydia, and a two month old baby, and Rowley had his wife, Martha, and daughter, Dorothy, with him.

Aztec Indians never inhabited the site of Aztec Ruins National monument, New Mexico. Early settlers, seeing ancient Pueblo ruins, misnamed them Aztec.

Ashville, Phone 79

Through the efforts of Fred Hines, Ashville has a good Community Band and improving all the while. He has consented, and with the assistance of the band members, will give at least five open-air concerts here beginning with next Thursday night, July 28. William Bowers, a member of the organization, visited a number of the business people yesterday asking their support in defraying expenses of these concerts and met with splendid success and hearty cooperation. May we hope that before the close of this concert season, the County 4-H Club band will be invited to be our guests at least one evening.

We think most all of you have noticed that the latchstring which has been attached to the main entrance door to the postoffice for some time, has been replaced with a different and new handhold.

Some interpret it to mean that the horde of applicants on their way in for application blanks in the rural carrier race, are stopped "dead in their tracks" by this insignia of welcome, "the latch string always hangs out", being removed. And when once "the thing is settled" and about forty-nine applicants are "ditched", it'll take a pile of salve and everything to heal those sore spots, or heads, if you prefer. FAY BAINTER IN HALL

Fay Bainter will join Grete Stueckgold, of the Metropolitan Opera, and the Foursome male quartet on Bing Crosby's guest roster in the Music Hall, Thursday. Bing will sing another of the tunes from his new picture "Sing You Sinners," and Donald O'Connor, child actor from the film's cast, will be on the show too.

Bob Burns, the Paul Taylor chorus and John Scott Trotter's orchestra are other features of the broadcast over the NBC red network at 9 p. m.

Fay Bainter has just made a resounding screen hit in "White Banners" and comes to the Hall for her first radio appearance since this success.

Grete Stueckgold besides singing a group of concert number demonstrates her hobby -- playing the harmonica--in a duet with Bob Burns' bazooka.

Bing's songs include "Pocketful of Dreams," "Mother Nature's Lullaby," "Someone Else May Be There While I'm Gone," "Now It Can Be Told," "Ride, Tenderfoot,

TRACY MEETS MCCARTHY

Spencer Tracy, last recipient of the Academy award for film acting, makes a guest appearance on the air Sunday, July 24. Edward Arnold is still acting as master of ceremonies of the show during Don Ameche's vacation and other members of the regular cast to be heard during the broadcast over the NBC red network at 7:00 p. m. are Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, John Carter, the Stroud Twins, Dorothy Lamour and Robert Armstrong's orchestra.

Tracy and Edward Arnold will be heard in a dramatic sketch and then later Tracy and Charlie McCarthy will have a "spot" together. This is the first time that Tracy has been on the show and consequently his introduction to Charlie. Also it's a case of one red-headed Irishman meeting another.

Musical features include tenor selections by John Carter, of the Metropolitan Opera; and popular tunes by Dorothy Lamour.

That's Ray Rogers in the streamlined, action-packed motion picture "Under Western Stars" coming Friday to the Cliftona Theatre on a double feature program with "Gangs of New York." In this Republic musical western Rogers portrays a son of the plains, elected to Congress to try to win legislation favorable to dust-bowl residents.

The sweep of the picture, "Under Western Stars," which moves rapidly from physical action on western plains to diplomatic action in Washington, and then back again to a rapid-fire, surging climax in the dust-stricken cattle country, makes for one of the most refreshingly entertaining pictures ever to come out of the Hollywood art mill, even in the feature picture field.

AT THE GRAND

"The County Chairman," at the Grand Theatre, stars Will Rogers in his happiest role as George Ade's uproarious small-town politician. He wins elections (and hearts) with his crackling wit and homespun Americanism.

One of the great classics of American humor, in the 20th Century-Fox adaptation it is played as only America's beloved humorist could play it. Warm in friendship, but too hot to handle in a fight, yet willing to surrender victory when it threatens to wreck young love, "The County Chairman," was a tailor-made character for Will Rogers.

The fine cast supporting the great humorist includes Kent Taylor, Evelyn Venable, Mickey Rooney, Louise Dresser, Berton Churchill and Stepin Fetchit. John Blystone directed the film.

The story occurs in a most interesting locale, Wyoming in the early 1900's, which is seldom seen out of Western adventure yarns. The excitement of a typical election campaign of the period is made doubly entertaining by the contrast to present-day radio electioneering. An old-fashioned torchlight procession on election-night is one of the highlights of the film.

Solicitor Carl Leist told council Wednesday evening that all detail work had been completed on the hospital and city hall addition proposals and that necessary papers had been submitted to the commission for approval. The commission must pass on the proposals before they are permitted to go on the ballot.

The third issue, providing money to erect a boulevard lighting system in the business district, will be in the commission's hands Friday, Mr. Leist said.

The Berger hospital addition would cost the city $10,000; city hall addition, to include a jail, garage and quarters for the health office, would cost $12,000, and boulevard lights would cost $9,000. All three projects depend on the ballot Aug. 9 and on the Public Works Administration's approval. Money raised from the bonds would be added to P.W.A. funds to provide the projects.

CHARLES BARCH PASSES STATE'S MEDICO TEST

Charles W. Barch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Barch of Duval, has passed the Ohio State Medical board examination, conducted in Columbus. Barch's name was listed among 284 Ohioans who passed the test.

The new physician is a graduate of the Ashville school and Ohio State university.

Highest grade obtained in the state examination was received by Forest C. Hunter of Wapakoneta, an Ohio State university student. His mark was 90.3 percent. Louis Hail, University of Cincinnati, was second with 89.7; G. W. Blanton, University of Cincinnati, and E. A. Votkyka, Western Reserve, were tied for third and fourth with 88.7.

The 284 persons passing the medical tests came from the following colleges: Ohio State, 91; University of Cincinnati, 65; Western Reserve, 61; Eclectic Medical college, Cincinnati, 32, and miscellaneous, 35.

Corrigan Learns How Easy It Is To Be Rich

LOS ANGELES, July 21—(UP)—The man who became a hero overnight by "mistake"—discovered today how easy it would be to grow rich.

All Douglas Corrigan needs to do is take part of the $15 surplus he has left from his aerial detour to Ireland and spend it for a fountain pen. The fellows with the contracts and the dotted lines are ready to do the rest.

With cash offers still pouring into Dublin and into the modest Los Angeles home of his uncle, the Rev. S. Fraser Langford, no accurate estimate of the fortune awaiting him yet is available, but a guess of $100,000 would be conservative.

Young Doug, who is so bashful he blushes, is wanted for a vaudeville tour. He doesn't smoke, but there are thousands of dollars waiting him if he'll endorse cigarettes.

Other manufacturers are willing to pay for his picture polishing his teeth with their paste; eating their breakfast food; wearing their brand of underwear; riding in their brand of automobile or pouring their motor oil into the engine of his ancient airplane.

If he'll lend his name to the "no mistake" candy bar, he will garner thousands more. A dozen radio programs want him. Even though the mere sight of a crowd makes him tongue-tied, a lecture bureau hopes to sign him for a lecture tour.

These many years he has called his 1929 model airplane "The Heap," but if he'll change its name to "Flirting With Fate," that also will pay him plenty.

One of the cables he received, in fact, was from David L. Lowe, the millionaire producer of Joe E. Brown movie comedies, who said: "Prepared to make you liberal offer to name your plane 'Flirting With Fate,' which is title my next Joe E. Brown picture, and barnstorm country with or without Brown as passenger, and an additional sum if you will play featured role in picture."

Five steamship companies fell over themselves trying to get him to ride home free in their royal suites. Tailors wanted to give him clothes, airlines offered him rides, and one dog food company offered him a supply of biscuits for his dog. He doesn't own a dog.

Odds are that Doug will accept none of these offers, simply because Lindbergh didn't when he likewise was besieged with men with contracts in their pockets.

"I've advised Doug by cable to sign nothing and to accept nothing," his Baptist minister uncle said, "I don't think he would have, anyway. He worked as a welder on Lindbergh's plane, you know, and he idolizes Lindbergh. He naturally is a steadfast, quiet boy and I am sure he would not try to capitalize on this trip of his."

The one job Doug really does want has not materialized. He wants to be a transport pilot for one of the big airlines.

American airlines already has asked him to become a commercial pilot. It may be that the transport executives fear their customers would be fearful of flying with a man who headed from New York to California—and professed surprise when the hills he saw at his destination weren't in Hollywood, but in Ireland.

Needs No Money

Money, his uncle said, means little to him. Neither does food, nor fine clothes. He does not own a single good suit. He doesn't drink. He's not interested in girls and as for meals—he used to buy a bottle of milk and a pecan roll every morning when he would overhaul his plane.

The milk and the roll cost him 10 cents. He would drink half the milk and eat half the roll for

MARY DELONG SCHLEGEL DIES AT HOME OF SON

Mrs. Mary DeLong Schlegel, 85, widow of Conrad Schlegel, died at 12:40 a. m. Thursday at the home of a son, Charles, 422 E. Franklin street. Infirmities and complications caused death. Mrs. Schlegel was removed from her residence, 117 E. Ohio street, last Sunday to her son's when her condition became serious.

The funeral will be Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at her home, the Rev. T. C. Harper officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

Mrs. Schlegel was born in Fairfield county June 4, 1853, a daughter of Joseph and Jane Edwards Delong. She married Conrad Schlegel in 1877. He preceded her in death.

Surviving are three children, Charles, at whose home she died; William Schlegel and Mrs. Pearl Gray, all of Cincinnati, and a brother, Jerome Delong, also of Cincinnati.

lunch. He would consume the rest at dinner time and spend half the night working on his ship by lantern light.

The Rev. Mr. Langford thinks that Doug Corrigan will never be a millionaire. But the world has not heard the last of Doug. Of that his uncle, who speaks from 10 years experience living with him, is sure.

DEMOCRATS TO INVITE DAVEY TO LOCAL MEET

A county-wide Democratic rally, which Governor Davey will be invited to attend, will be conducted at Gold Cliff park on Saturday, July 30. Democratic committees which met in common pleas court-room Wednesday evening decided on the date. Sixty executive and central committeemen took part in the confab.

Lawrence Goeller, chairman of the executive committee, said Thursday that the committees discussed various issues. Indorsements were voted during the evening.

Mr. Goeller, urged committeemen to remind voters in their precincts to write in the name of Meeker Terwilliger for common pleas judge. The death of Judge J. W. Adkins and Mr. Terwilliger's appointment took place at such a date that the name of the newly-appointed judge could not be printed on the ballot. His name must be written in to assure his nomination for election in November.

The committee placed cards in various locations, Wednesday, urging that Mr. Terwilliger's name be inserted in a designated place on the ballot.

The July 30 outing is expected to be a gala affair, the entire park being taken over for afternoon and evening celebration.

THIRD DIVORCE SUIT IS FILED BY LUPE VELEZ

"John-ee" Morose, Sullen And Cruel, Also Jealous, Says
Film Actress

STAR CLOSES MANSION

Tarzan Unable To Talk On Screen Takes It Out On Her, Wife Claims

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
HOLLYWOOD, July 21—(UP)— Lupe Velez, who has tossed many a dainty haymaker in the direction of her husband's chin—and ducked many a piece of furniture in return—had her third divorce suit on file today against her
"John-ee."

Twice before, the Johnny Weis-mullers have gone to the divorce court, only to kiss and make up.
But this time Miss Velez insisted that she never would return to the man she used to call her "love-lee brute."

Miss Velez charged Weismuller with being morose, sullen and cruel. She said he was so jealous he didn't even want her to go to the beauty parlor to get her hair touched up. She said that he forgot to come home to dinner even when she cooked it, and that he insulted her guests.

Weismuller, one-time swimming champion and Tarzan of the movies, left her last week, she charged, going to Lake Arrowhead.

Lupe Sails Away

Miss Velez, who has been appearing on the stage lately and in Mexican-made movies, closed her mansion and went yachting.
She sailed into port only long enough to sign her complaint in Superior court and then sailed away again.

Not many months ago Miss Velez poured this correspondent a highball—she drank her own whiskey straight—and told at some length her love for her "John-ee."
She also told of her troubles with him between kisses.

"For seven years he is an actor at Metro," she said, "and all he says is 'ugh.' Not another word does he speak on the screen. So he take it out on me at home."

"He talk, talk, talk, all the time.
But I feex heem. When he start to jabber, jabber, jabber, I say 'is that so?' That make heem so mad he stop."

Gifts From John

Miss Velez wore during this interview a coat of red fox fur without any sleeves. She said she also had a gray fur coat and a black fur coat, also sleeveless.

She said Weismuller bought them for her and that she had designed them personally.

She left off the sleeves, she
show.

The Weismullers were married in Las Vegas, Nev., in 1933. A year later Miss Velez sued Weis-muller for divorce on charges of cursing her, threatening her, and throwing things like Louis XVI davenport at her. These caused severe cuts and lacerations, she said.

Weismuller replied that Miss Velez may have hit him, but that he never struck her. She said he was a gentleman. A couple of weeks later Miss Velez dismissed her suit and fell into the arms of Weis-muller, while the cameras clicked.

Another year passed and again Miss Velez went to court. She told the same story. She mentioned curses, broken furniture and bruises. Again the cameras snapped while the Weismullers kissed and for three more years they lived and—as Miss Velez put it—loved and fought.

This, she indicated in her third suit, was even harder on the nerves than it was on the furniture.

ICE AGE STUDY COLLEGE GOAL WILL BE MADE OF MOTHER, 53, IN TEXAS AREA DRAWING NEAR

NEW YORK—(UP)—Stirred by discoveries of remains of early man and of animal bones near Alpine, in the rugged Big Bend country of southwestern Texas, geologists this Summer will study the Pleistocene, or Ice Age, deposits of that region, it was announced here by the Geological Society of America.

The investigators, Dr. Kirk Bryan, professor of geology in Harvard University, and Dr. Claude
C. Albritton, instructor of geology in Southern Methodist University, have been awarded a grant from the Penrose Bequest of the society to carry on the research.

The geologic project will supplement the work of an archeological expedition undertaken jointly by Harvard University and the Sul Ross Teachers College of Alpine, Tex., to explore and excavate sites of early man and extinct animals in the region within 50 miles of Alpine. The field survey is under way, and already 19 sites have been located at which relics of early men have been found at depths of from 7 to 20 feet.

Dr. Albritton and Dr. Bryan will study the sites excavated by archeologists, and will correlate the deposits thus exposed with nearby natural exposures and with the general topography of the region in an attempt to discover the exact age of the deposits.

The region is one of broad basins and isolated mountains. Some of the basins drain to the Rio Grande, and some are enclosed. It is expected that at least two months in the field will be necessary.

THE "BUM NAVIGATOR"

DOUGLAS CORRIGAN, the problem child of two governments, isn't a child at all. At thirty-one he is old enough to know the danger of flying the Atlantic in an ancient and ill-equipped airplane. He is old enough to know why there are rules to regulate such flights, why permits and passports are required, and that a crazy jaunt like his may set a lot of irresponsible kids to trying stunts which will cost their own and others' lives. It will be necessary for officials to talk like a Dutch uncle to this American with the Irish ancestry.

When all the criticisms and scoldings are in, however, there will be left a twinkle of the eye, a cheerful grin, a delightful thrill and considerable admiration for the fellow with the coolness, the nerve and the determination to get that long-cherished dream out of his system in such a quiet and unassuming way. He is joyously forgiven for the incredible statement that he meant to fly to Los Angeles.

The Irish will love him. So will his fellow-Americans. And somehow, we have a little feeling that the harassed world needed some midsummer adventure to cheer it up. There is more chuckling than gasping over Corrigan's stunt, and chuckles are as wholesome as they have been rare in recent years.

QUEEN MARIE

MARIE of Roumania was unquestionably the most interesting queen of modern times. She was beautiful. She had brains and intelligence. It was natural that she should escape the bounds that usually keep royal ladies to a limited routine and should do startling and spectacular things.

It is said that Queen Marie's early popularity and success went to her head and that ambition drove her to seek more power than she was able to handle. She made mistakes. Her trip to America was poorly managed and hampered by the worst sort of publicity.

There were other events in her life, however, which entirely offset these mistakes. Her service during the World War as a hospital nurse was of a high order. Most queens would merely have passed through the least offensive wards and spoken kind and encouraging words to the wounded and dying men. Marie actually worked, like any other nurse, and performed whatever menial or disagreeable tasks were to be done.

Although she was only the queen of a small country she became a world figure, laughed at sometimes, but increasingly admired and respected.

Germany objects to American "economic encirclement" in South America. Of course there's no economic encirclement in Central Europe.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up thinking about that Corrigan chap and his flight across the Atlantic. Maybe aviation has gained nothing by the adventure, but all the world has had a good laugh as a result of the wrong-direction hop, and a laugh for the world now is just nothing to be ignored. Think of that wild Irishman riding high over the clouds, a bright sun shining above, a hungry sea and death below and him singing loudly to himself as you and I sing in the bathtub. Corrigan had perfect confidence in himself and that old $900 "clipper" of his. Nothing could stop him, he decided, and nothing did. So, he achieved his goal. The confidence of that flier is something to marvel at in a world that is practically without confidence. If the rest of us had Corrigan's confidence we would be out of our economic troubles in jig-time.

For the last week I have been trying to get out to the hospital to see Bill Radcliff and always something interfered. Bill is one of my particular favorites and each day I was pleased by reports on his progress after an operation. Now, he has been taken home and soon will be seen again on the paves. That's fine.

Met Fred Wittick and Al Shasteen, both looking fit after trips into the Canadian wilds after fish. Neither caught many, but they both gained in health.

Bob Fickardt is in the wide open country near Lodge Grass, Montana, working in the harvest fields and visiting the Franklin Gregorys. He writes of seeing buffalo and deer and listening to coyotes yap at night. The postman makes three trips a week and the mailbox is ten miles from the ranch house. Mrs. Gregory, formerly Ruth Renick and a daughter of H. C. Renick, is a sister of Barrister Tom.

A nice country for a vacation, that Montana, but anyone can have my share of it as a permanent abode. Farming out there is done under real difficulties. All of it is dry. And I have seen farmers hauling grain 90 miles by horse to the nearest railroad. This year, I see by the prints, that the grasshoppers have taken practically all the crops in Southeastern Montana. Well, that part of the state never was anything but stock land anyway. One crop out of three or four if the farmer happened to be lucky.

Chatted with Ed Ebert and then Bryan Custer before returning to the office and finding Lawrence Goeller there as a visitor. Talked about this and that and politics, Lawrence being in the political game up to his ears. Enjoyed a visit by James Dresbach, the Detroit barrister, who is here on business in connection with his father's estate. He says that most of the youngsters have changed in appearance, but that the older folk are just as he knew them years ago. That's a compliment for some.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

WALLACE URGES CROP CONTROL

WASHINGTON—Henry Wallace is now undertaking probably the largest piece of salesmanship since the time of Noah—to persuade all the wheat-exporting nations of the world to adopt an AAA plan for crop curtailment.

This is behind the recent Wallace announcement for an ever-normal international granary for wheat. This means that Canada, Argentina, Australia, Hungary, Russia and Yugoslavia must be sold on the New Deal idea of storing their wheat surpluses when they have them.

Even more difficult, it means selling these six countries on the New Deal curtailment plan which U. S. farmers have known since 1933 and which economists of the world have watched with fixed amazement and doubt.

The ever-normal granary and production control go hand in hand. No country can be expected to hold its surplus off the market if the next crop and the next after that continue to add to the surplus. There must be control at the source or the whole thing breaks down.

So Wallace is out to sell to the world the agricultural economy which in five years he has sold to the United States. He does not expect all six customers to buy at the first offer. Argentina is not even present at the international wheat conference in London today. She pulled out after export quotas were imposed in 1933, and has been sulking on the sidelines ever since. But there will be other conferences.

Australia is likely to be Wallace's first convert, with Russia and Canada following—if Canada has the big crop now indicated. If Argentina does not get over her sulk, she may be brought in by the scruff of the neck. Great Britain, Argentina's best market, can make her behave.

Wallace's most effective ally, however, will be Mother Nature. If she continues to lavish sun and rain upon the wheat fields of the world and to turn out crops of 4 billion bushels, any joint action to stabilize prices will be welcome.

IMMIGRANT'S ENEMY

Among his colleagues on Capitol Hill, Senator Reynolds of North Carolina is noted for his gay good nature and frank grandstanding. But to some 4,500 aliens, the debonair North Carolinian is a grim Nemesis.

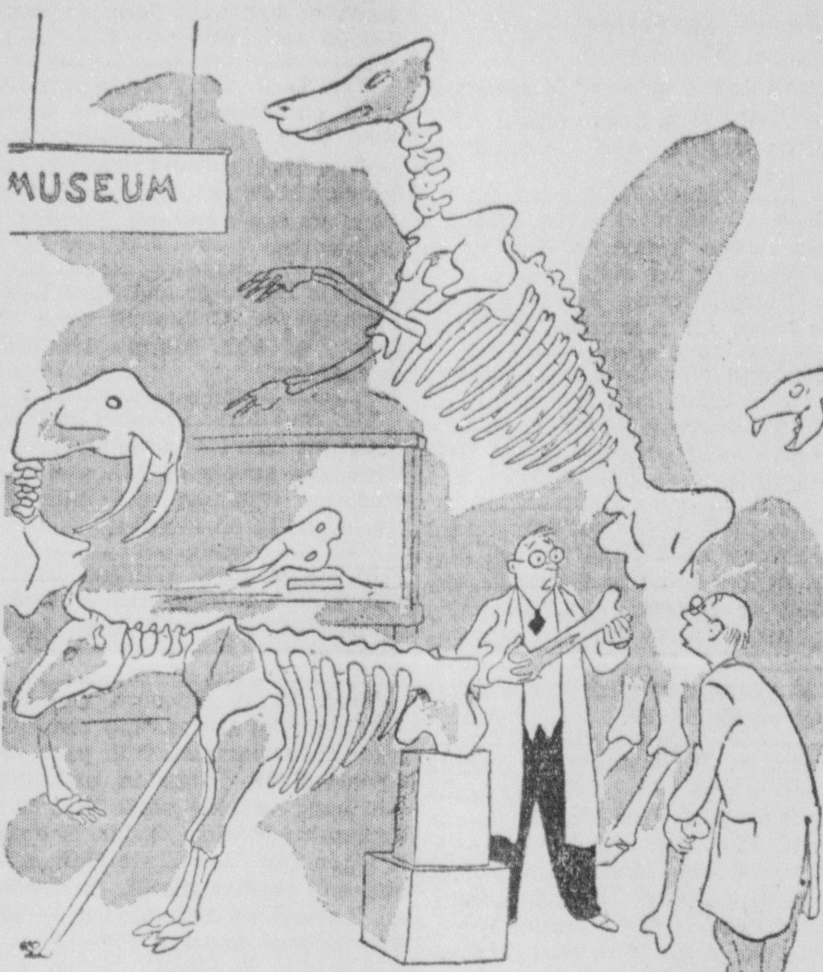

For four years he has waged a one-man filibuster against legislation that would relieve them and their American wives and American-born children of the dread menace of deportation.

These are the Immigration Bureau's so-called "hardship" cases. That is, while deportable because of some technical violation of the strict entry laws, they are decent, law-abiding heads of families who would suffer if they were evicted. Of the 4,500 total, 1,800 are Europeans, 900 Canadians and the remainder from Mexico.

Typical Americanism as Howard Hughes landed in Moscow: "Please refuel as quickly as possible, so we can leave in twenty minutes." And typical Russianism: He got away in two hours and a quarter.

Old Remedies Found Best For Arthritis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I HAVE BEEN attending the annual meeting of the American Medical Association in San Francisco. Although this report will reach my readers somewhat late to be classified as news, it is worth while to review the meeting because here is assembled everything that is new in medical science.

The scientific sections are in two divisions—one is the reading of reports to audiences of doctors; the other division consists of exhibits of new methods of diagnosis and treatment.

Among the papers of interest was the report on chronic rheumatism. There has been so much talk about new remedies that it was refreshing to hear Dr. Dawson of New York recommend a few old tried and true methods that are not expensive nor difficult to obtain.

Three Categories Listed
He divided the methods of treatment of arthritis into three categories—first, the remedies of proved value; second, the remedies of doubtful value; and third, the remedies of no value. In the first division, the remedies of proved value, he listed rest, psychotherapy, the use of salicylate drugs, such as aspirin, heat and physical measures, splinting and other orthopedic treatment, and climate. Under the treatment of doubtful value he listed removal of focal infections, such as teeth and tonsils, and special diet of any kind. Of no value, he said, were vaccines, any drugs except those designed to relieve pain, bee-venom therapy, sulfanilamide, sunshine, sulphur and several others familiar to the victims of this malady. It was a refreshing breeze of honesty after all the compound bunk we have heard about the treatment of arthritis.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Advance in the treatment of diabetes was reported by the use of crystalline insulin. When insulin was first used over 10 years ago, it was obtained from the extract of the pancreatic gland. Now they can make it in pure crystalline form like any other chemical. In the treatment of severe diabetes with crystalline insulin, Dr. Altschuler of Detroit has found that fewer doses are needed and disagreeable reactions of all kinds are rare.

An astonishing report was that of a young girl who had one-half of her brain removed for epilepsy. In spite of the fact that the part which is supposed to be concerned with the higher thought centers is gone, she is able to conduct her life and affairs with considerable success. This would tend to show that the brain can compensate itself for loss to a considerable extent.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Diets for Diabetes," "Diets for Indigestion and Constipation," "Diets for Duodenal and Gastric," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

TWO WORLDS

BY MAUD MCCURDY WELCH

Written for CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Determined to show Dr. Julian Paige, the man she is in love with, that she can make her own way in the world, Noel Shayne, wealthy girl, who burns her bridges behind her, moves to a rooming house, and, for lack of anything better, obtains a job as a taxi dancer at the Peacock, run by Nick Luigi. She is living with a girl named Laurie Evans, whom she met in the park, and who is a cashier at the restaurant which Julian patronizes. Noel feels she has a dangerous rival in Ruth Chester, Julian's pretty nurse. During an outing in the country, Julian tells Noel he wants to kiss her but doesn't think he should. One evening at the Peacock, Luigi tries to kiss Noel. She slaps his face and threatens to quit. Noel gets a job in a laundry but loses it after three days because she doesn't work fast enough. Still dancing at the Peacock, Noel meets a young man named Chris Landers, whose redemptive makes him stand out from the others she has danced with.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 17

A WHOLE WEEK had passed and Noel hadn't seen Julian. It had seemed almost unbearable. But Noel's pride was aroused. She wasn't going to follow Julian around as Ruth Chester did. She wasn't even going to make any effort to see him. The next move would have to be his. And whether or not he would make any further effort to see her, Noel didn't know.

The hours at the Peacock were becoming more and more hateful. She had made several efforts since her last disastrous failure to find another position. But without any success, or even any encouragement.

One thing, however, Noel didn't make any further effort to see her, even though she would have serious as always of his pale watching eyes.

Chris Landers hadn't come back to the Peacock. Noel found herself expecting him, looking forward to seeing him again, even searching the floor at times hoping for a glimpse of his sleek, shining blond head.

It wasn't because of any sentimental feeling she had toward him. It was because he seemed more like a man from her own world than any of the others she had met and danced with. She was the kind of girl who had room in her heart for only one man, no matter how indifferently he might treat her. She was made like that and simply couldn't help it. If she hadn't been, she would never have embarked on this adventure, and fought such a losing fight all these long weeks. And she had to admit, in all honesty, that the adventure was losing its zest, since Julian had practically dropped out of the picture.

Once again it was Saturday—a late morning for Laurie, who sometimes went to work as early as 7 o'clock, and sometimes not until 9.

So Laurie was fixing breakfast, while Noel sat in the hard rocker in her pajamas, trying to mend a run in her last pair of good hose. It was amazing, Noel thought, the amount of time it consumed, just trying to keep neat, although Laurie didn't seem to have much trouble doing it.

Laurie took the coffee pot off the gas ring. "Here, let me do that," she exclaimed, taking the stocking from Noel. "If you'll only take tiny stitches, honey, instead of trying to pull it together."

Noel let Laurie have the chair and stood up, brushed her hair back from her forehead with her hand, and said unhappily, "Oh, I don't suppose I'll ever learn to do anything."

"When I get rich, I'll get you a maid," Laurie said with a little laugh. "And anyway, I like doing things for you."

"I wonder why. I'm sure I don't deserve to have you," Noel said in a low voice. "What you ought to have," she went on, "is a husband and 13 children to fuss over."

"Thirteen—golly!" Laurie's face was so shocked, that Noel had to laugh. "Well, anyway, seven," she amended. "That's a lucky number."

"I could do with seven," Laurie said quite seriously.

Noel stared at her, hardly able to believe Laurie meant what she said. Then she saw again the little fleeting look of sadness come into Laurie's eyes, so Noel changed the subject at once by saying that the weather was getting hot and she hadn't anything cool to wear.

In another minute Laurie was looking more cheerful. "I'll help you find some bargains," she promised and began brushing her hair vigorously. Then she added, "Doctor Paige was asking about you yesterday."

"Was he?" Noel's heart gave a little jump. Then he wasn't quite as indifferent as he seemed. At least he had asked about her.

"He wanted to know how you were, and said he hoped you were enjoying yourself as usual." Laurie didn't see the dark flush that rose to Noel's face. She wondered if there had been anything ironic in Julian's inquiry as to whether she might be having a good time "as usual." At any rate, it was purely casual, and it gave her a feeling that he didn't expect to see her any time soon.

And all the time just because of his kiss—Noel's face burned at the thought. Then she asked herself impatiently why she couldn't have sense enough to realize that a kiss was just a kiss to Julian Paige, as it was to hundreds of other men. He had probably forgotten it, while she had hugged the memory of it to her heart ever since. "Women are idiots, aren't they?" Noel said to Laurie.

She nodded. "They're always falling in love with the wrong man."

"You too?" Noel asked.

Laurie nodded. "It certainly looks like it."

She had finished dressing and was ready now to leave for work. Nothing more was said about Julian. Afterwards Noel would have given anything if she had explained her situation a little more clearly to Laurie. If she had, the thing that happened afterward would have been prevented.

Noel felt so tired and dispirited this morning she didn't even get a paper and look over the ads. Even if she should be lucky enough to find a job, she told herself bitterly, she'd be fired the next day.

In the afternoon, Noel went up town. She had to have a pair of shoes to dance in. The sandals she had brought with her, along with the tulle evening dress, were practically gone. She had found the reason the girls always left their dance frocks and slippers in the lockers was to save all possible extra wear. They didn't last long at that.

And now Noel had to have new sandals. She didn't want to open her locker some night and find a new pair had been put in there by Nick, which was quite likely to happen.

So she went to the place Laurie had mentioned to her, where she could buy a pair for $2.98.

Once Noel had paid as much as $30 for a pair. Those days seemed very far away.

In the afternoon when she had bought the sandals, it was all Noel could do to resist the temptation of going to the De Luxe. But her pride won again. Julian had asked Laurie about her, but he hadn't expressed a desire to see her. It was true he had exacted a promise from her to keep in touch with him. But he had probably forgotten all about that now, being so engrossed in his work—and the pretty nurse!

Noel resisted the temptation to go to the restaurant. And afterward, when it was too late, she knew it had been a mistake to let her stubborn pride keep her away. The truth was, she might as well admit it to herself, it wasn't altogether her pride. There was another reason. She had been afraid she would see Julian and Ruth Chester together, talking and laughing gaily, happy and quite oblivious of the fact that she, Noel, was even in the same world. She couldn't bear that again.

Like many a girl has before her, Noel came to a sudden arm resolve. She would put Julian Paige out of her life, and her thoughts...

That evening Chris Landers came back to the Peacock. Noel was overjoyed to see him. There was something so clean and fine and sweet about Chris. She liked him very much. With a little effort, she could like him a great deal more. And she needed just the very sort of friend Chris wanted to be.

She had heard it said that the way to get one man out of your mind was promptly to interest yourself in another. So here was Chris, blond and debonair and likeable always looking at her with admiration in his gray-green eyes and paying her pretty compliments which were like honey to her sadly deflated ego after Julian's cool indifference.

It ought to be easy to fall in love with Chris, Noel decided.

A DAY in which some peculiar or long-concealed matter may be brought to a head is peagased from the predominant planetary configurations. This engaging condition seems to revolve around either the social or emotional life, and might have thrilling or dramatic culminations. Pleasures, social functions and enterprises in connection with women and their interests are predominant, although business also may have its intriguing elements.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which their social, emotional or affectional lives seem to crowd out other interests. In these there may be intriguing, romantic and peculiar aspects which may develop suddenly from obscure sources and have dramatic denouements. Social, cultural and domestic matters engage the paramount attention.

A child born on this day may be ardent, adventurous and romantic. It may enjoy the thrilling phases of life, although it may be cultured, refined, kindly and have great personal popularity.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

ALL TREES require food, water and air to keep them in good health. And only healthy trees can resist attacks of insects and diseases. Therefore proper watering of trees becomes exceedingly important during times of great heat or drought. When watering a tree, the water, if it is to serve its purpose, must reach well below the surface so the roots underground can drink it in.

As shown in the Garden-Graph, one effective method of watering a tree during a drought period is to sink a four-inch tile (sixteen inches long) into the ground at a point half way between the trunk of the tree and the outer spread of its branches. Do this on two or more sides of the tree. The end of a hose should be placed in the opening of the tile and the water allowed to run into the tile slowly but for several hours at a time.

This "underground soaking" should be repeated every two weeks during dry spells. Between watering periods the open end of the tile can be covered with an inverted flower pot or a heavy piece of sod. When fall rains start the tiles can be filled with soil.

MERCURY DUE AT NEW YORK IN AFTERNOON

Pick-a-Back Craft Makes Brief Stop At Montreal On Way To U. S.

plane's cargo of mail and pictures destined for Canadian points.

Continues Flight

Pilot Donald C. T. Bennett had intended at first to land at Botwood, Newfoundland. But as he left Foynes, Ireland, he had been given discretion to fly directly to Montreal, for a total of 2,850 miles from Foynes, if he thought it advisable.

As the planes rose, from the Irish airport, the four motors of the Mercury operated synchronously with the four motors of the Maia, so that to all purposes it was a flight of one biplane—the Maia forming the lower plane, the Mercury the upper—with eight motors.

In the air, the Maia straightened out. The secret locking apparatus was released, and the Mercury shot out under its own power from the Maia's back. By taking off in the air, it was able to carry a much greater payload than would have been possible had it taken off from the water—or, if a land plane, from a flying field.

Inventor Watches Hop

Inventor Mayo, Royal Air Force and Imperial Airways company officials watched the takeoff, as the Maia circled down for a landing, its part of the flight completed.

At the last moment, Pilot Bennett was instructed that he might continue on to Montreal if he wanted to, instead of landing at Botwood Harbor, the official first stopping place on the North American side.

Radio Operator A. J. Coster, who accompanied Bennett, maintained contact with the air ministry at London, ships at sea and eventually stations on the North American side as the Mercury went steadily on. Messages from the Mercury showed its steady progress.

ROTARY HEARS DEFENSE OF NATION APPLAUDED

Rotarians heard Col. R. P. Palmer of the Fort Hayes army depot, declare in an address Thursday noon that the United States is better prepared for an emergency at the present time than at any other period in its history. Departing from the usual belief that Uncle Sam would be in difficulty in case of trouble, Col. Palmer, who arose from the rank of private to his present position lauded the government's preparedness program.

Col. Palmer was a guest of George P. Foresman. He was introduced by Dr. H. D. Jackson, commanding officer of the Ohio National Guard's medical regiment.

Visitors were present from Georgetown, Logan and Chillicothe.

HEPBURN DISCUSSES HER ROMANCE WITH AVIATOR

WESTPORT, Conn., July 21.—(UP)—The rumored Katharine Hepburn-Howard Hughes romance was discussed last night by Miss Hepburn:

"Are you married, Miss Hepburn?" the movie actress was asked at a country playhouse.

"That's a personal question," Miss Hepburn replied, "and I can only answer it with a smile."

"When did you last see Mr. Hughes?"

"That's another personal question."

"When will you see him again?" That time Miss Hepburn did not reply.

She merely winked.

SHARK BREAKS PRESIDENT'S LINE AND GETS AWAY

ABOARD THE U. S. S. HOUSTON, En Route to Cocos Isle, July 21.—(By Naval Radio to the United Press)—President Roosevelt might have had plenty to say today about the shark that broke his line and got away, but his fishing luck wasn't all bad. He caught a 30 pound blue jack in the waters off Socorro island, the largest of 130 fish caught by the six fishermen in the party. He lost the shark after a half hour struggle.

The fishing was the best of any since the cruise began and Mr. Roosevelt was somewhat reluctant to leave for Clipperton island, a French possession 670 miles from the coast of Mexico and on a direct line between Panama and Hawaii.

CORRIGAN WILL SAIL JULY 30

in Washington where Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" has been viewed by thousands.

Corrigan was said to be thrilled about the prospects of having his plane under the same roof as Lindbergh's. He was Corrigan's "hero" and his flight from New York to Paris was said to have inspired Corrigan to make his transatlantic "mistake" hop.

Having Good Time

Corrigan was having a good time in Dublin.

"I'm trying to arrange it so that my plane will be taken back to the United States on the same ship on which I'm sailing," he said.

"First of all, I'd like to visit London for a day or two before sailing so that I can visit all the English airplane factories, and if possible see the King and Queen."

Corrigan was asked if he would like to fly back home across the Atlantic in the new seaplane Mercury, the upper component of the Mayo "pick-a-back" plane, which left Foynes last night for Montreal and New York.

"No," he replied, "I would rather go by boat."

Turns Down Offers

Meanwhile, aviation's newest celebrity turned down hundreds of offers from all over the world to write newspaper articles about his flight, and to appear in vaudeville and movies. Among the film offers was one from Darryl-Zanuck of 20th Century-Fox films. Zanuck cabled from Paris an offer of a five-year film contract to include three pictures a year and a vaudeville contract of $20,000 for a 10-weeks tour.

The offers poured into the United States station where Corrigan is making his home, but so far he has turned all of them down.

"I'll wait until I get home and then see what I'll do about them," he said.

Some American promoters asked American minister to Ireland John Cudahy to use his influence with Corrigan, but they received the same reply.

In High Spirits

Corrigan awoke in high spirits today after the first real night's sleep he has had since he set his crate down on the field at Baldonnel airport Monday afternoon.

He had the whole day to himself, the first time his time has been his own. His passage back home was booked, his plane was safe and there were no more calls to pay on Irish authorities or official luncheons. Although he made the most unusual flight of modern aviation, Corrigan showed that he was just a tourist. He spent a whole hour writing postcards to relatives and friends in the United States.

Before that he went to one of Dublin's oldest tailoring firms where he posed for news reel photographers while trying on an Irish tweed overcoat.

tirely on the circumstances of the next case. And it is our hope and it is my belief that we will get from substantial parts of the industry voluntary plans coming in for commission action."

There is evidence of real sincerity by some holding companies to make the readjustments required under the act, he said, adding that there is no immediate need for the SEC to "take the route of the legal mandate as long as there is progress."

Specifically, the Utilities Power & Light Corp., which last August had consolidated assets of $303,813,000, and its trustee, Charles True Adams, have been ordered to show cause at a hearing August 8 why the so-called death sentence provision should not be invoked.

In announcing the action, Douglas cited the "large degree" of disintegration of the company's holdings on a specially prepared map which showed that the company operates in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma, North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, and Wisconsin.

SAWYER FLAYS DAVEY PROGRAM

cause and methods. I want to hear from these victims of unscrupulous un-Democratic methods and practices. I want to see them and talk with them. And after Jan. 1 I'll want to seek them again. I welcome the support of every state employee who is too honest and too sincere to be a party to that kind of rotten politics."

"These employees will have nothing to fear when I am governor of Ohio," the candidate declared in predicting that he would win the nomination Aug. 9 and the election in November.

Mr. Sawyer referred to Ferd M. Pickens, Circleville, Davey's campaign manager, when he said, "I had better tread softly here because I understand that I am on hallowed ground because of Mr. Pickens' interest in the Davey campaign."

Refers To Pickens

The Cincinnati, sarcastically cited Mr. Pickens for two reasons: 1. Because he has made a great contribution to political science as a co-inventor of my opponent's five percent assessment idea for state employees; and 2. Because he invented the slogan, "Landslide for Our Side." "He had better watch out," Mr. Sawyer said, "for that landslide is going to go the other way."

The speaker returned to the George Hanley letter to state that incidents such as Mr. Hanley's dismissal are taking place every day in Ohio. "I want to bring back to Ohio the kind of government we had under the administrations of Judson Harman, Jimmy Cox, Vic Donahey and George White," the candidate declared, "and I need the support of you good people of Pickaway county if I am to do it."

"Employees of the state," he said, "are free men and women and they must be treated as such. They have been ordered to stay away from my meetings."

Criticizes Davey

"I want to give the people of Ohio an opportunity to vote for something other than the type of government they have been forced to accept in the last three and one-half years. When an officeholder asks a third term," he continued, "he is deserving only when his tenure of office has been an outstanding success. I charge that my opponent's three and one-half years as governor of Ohio do not warrant his return to Columbus for another term."

Mr. Sawyer discussed several matters of interest to Ohioans, saying that he planned, with the aid of the legislature, to provide an engineer as highway director who would have nothing to do except see that Ohio has the finest road system in the nation. A bi-partisan highway board will be appointed if he is elected governor, Mr. Sawyer said.

Pensions To Continue

He called attention to the report that Davey's aides have been visiting clients of the division of aid for the aged warning them that their pensions may stop if Governor Davey is not returned to the state capital. "This is not true and my opponent knows it is not true. When I am governor I shall spend my time trying to better the old age division and the liquor control department rather than trying to spread 'bugaboos' of this time."

Candidates for Pickaway county offices were introduced by the chairman before Mr. Sawyer started to speak. Arrangements for the meeting were in the charge of Bryan Custer, Sawyer's campaign manager in Pickaway county.

The Cincinnati left Circleville for Columbus where he is scheduled to attend a conference. He speaks at a major rally in Dayton this evening. Wednesday evening, Mr. Sawyer addressed a capacity crowd in the Lancaster high school auditorium.

The Davey administration was confronted with a statement by Sawyer to have information that the state old age pension office already as spent three-fourths of its annual administrative funds in adding employees to the payroll to strengthen Gov. Martin L. Davey's political organization.

"I have been informed," Sawyer said, "that three-fourths of this year's funds in the administrative budget of the division of aid for the aged have already been spent in the mad rush to put people on the public payroll in order to build up a larger political battalion in

$54,000,000 EXPENDED TO DIVERT FARM PRODUCE

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(UP)—The federal surplus commodities corporation reported today that it spent about $54,000,000 in the fiscal year ended June 30 to divert price-depressing surplus farm commodities from regular commercial channels.

For the current fiscal year the corporation has $79,000,000 from agricultural tariff receipts for such purchases. It now is spending at the rate of about $18,000,000 a month as the peak of the growing season approaches.

The agricultural adjustment administration reported, in a preliminary statement of the corporation's activities last year that purchases covered more than 40 commodities for distribution to relief agencies. This program accounted for more than $45,500,000 of the expenditures.

There will be none, and the administration of the old age pension law will suffer accordingly as people who should have kept their jobs to run the division efficiently are laid off to pay the price of political spending during the final weeks of the campaign."

In his Cleveland speech the governor took credit for an economical administration and enactment of social security legislation, reminding his audience that two years ago he raised monthly old age pension grants by $10 through an executive order.

ities statute to Konrad Henlein, German minority leader, so that there could be negotiations on it.

These talks continued at intervals between engagements today, but the big event was the display of France's military power.

It is sometimes forgotten that British and other military experts have called France's army the most formidable, in its fighting efficiency, in Europe; that France has a regular army of nearly 700,000 men and 5,500,000 reserves.

It was to put these facts clearly in the mind of the British public that France held its parade today in the King's honor.

King George, in the uniform of a field marshal of the British army, stood beside President Albert Lebrun and Gen. Maurice Gamelin, vice president of the superior war council, and took the salute as the troops marched by, representing every branch of the fighting services.

Gen. Gaston Billotte, military governor of Paris, led the parade and after the first troops had passed he joined the King and the others in the reviewing stand.

First cavalry passed, in battle formation, then infantry, then motorized units, tanks and artillery.

CRESCENT CITY WANTS STATUE LINED STREETS

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—The erection of statuary throughout New Orleans may cause it to become known as the "City of Monuments."

Mayor Robert Maestri has proposed that major avenues and boulevards be designated to honor former governors, educators, scientists and other prominent persons who contributed to the city's progress. Perhaps, peristyles and shelter houses, in addition to monuments and busts, would be placed along the streets.

"Columbus may not have set foot on our soil," the mayor said, "but Marquette, LaSalle and DeSoto did. We should be interested in seeing that proper tribute is accorded them. Galvez fought with his French colonists to save the 13 colonies during the American revolution, but it is not commonly known. A monument also should be erected to Bienville, the founder of our city."

MARLIN OF 1,226 POUNDS ROPED IN SHALLOW WATER

VICTORIA, Australia (UP)—Although not rating himself as an angler, J. Pearson is believed to have established a new world record by the capture of a 1,226 pound black marlin. However, his technique in catching the fish would probably disqualify him as title holder.

While sitting on the beach, Pearson saw the marlin swimming straight for the shore until it was stranded in shallow water. Pearson hastily got a rope, tied it around the marlin's tail, and with the aid of the next incoming wave hauled it out of reach of the outgoing tide.

NATIONALISTS BEATEN BACK IN THREE ATTACKS

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, July 21.—(UP)—Three nationalist attacks, preceded by a violent artillery barrage and airplane bombings, failed to break the loyalist "stone wall" front before Sagunto and Valencia, government dispatchers asserted today.

In securing a second delay of his first degree murder trial this week Roush changed his plea from not guilty to not guilty by reason of insanity.

He was charged with killing Mr. and Mrs. Homer T. Myers at their farm home near here on April 30.

NEW YORK GIANTS APPEAR TO BE COMING APART AT THE SEAMS

TERRY'S TEAM LACKS HEART OF PREDECESSORS

Punch And Pitching Of Flag Winners Are Missing In 1938 Group

LOSE TWO TO CARDINALS

Cincinnati Drops Tough One To Bees Who Turn Table In Last Frame

NEW YORK, July 21—(UP)—The New York Giants appeared to be coming apart at the seams today. They are far from the Giants who were famed for their tight defensive play, their ability to rise to the occasion in a crisis and their dogged determination when odds against them were the heaviest.

This team of Bill Terry's isn't the same club of which they used to say, "The Giants never beat themselves; you've got to lick 'em." This team hasn't the heart of those championship teams of 1936 and 1937. This team hasn't the punch or the pitching of those pennant winners. In short, the Giants of 1938 can't hold a candle to their two predecessors.

Cruelest Blow

The cruelest blow the Giants have had to take all season came yesterday when the seventh-place St. Louis Cardinals rose up and smacked them down twice good and hard, 7-2 and 7-1. The double defeat dropped them to a game and a half from the top and left them only four games ahead of the third-place Cubs.

The Cards southpawed the Giants to death — Lefty Shoun letting them down with four hits in the opener and Bob Weiland keeping nine scattered in the nightcap. Homers by Leiber and Seeds were the only runs made off Shoun, and Ott's homer was the only run off Weiland. Afield the Giants were highly erratic, making two errors in each game.

Mize Is Hero

Johnny Mize, Cards' first sacker, hit three homers in the second game, driving in five runs. It was the second time this season he has hit three homers in one game, and it brought his season's total to 11. The Cards battered Cliff Melton for 11 hits in the opener and pounded Slick Castelman out of the box in six innings in the second game.

The Giants' western trip has been one of the worst in recent years, with only three wins in ten games. They lost two out of three in Cincinnati, two out of four (one tie) in Pittsburgh, and two out of three thus far in St. Louis. They close the St. Louis series today and then move to Chicago to play the scrappy Cubs, led by their new manager, Gabby Hartnett.

Reds Dumped

Cincinnati was dumped from third place when scored 4-3 by the Boston Bees in a night game. Max West's home run with two mates aboard in the ninth brought the Bees from behind and beat Johnny Vander Meer who hurled five-hit ball.

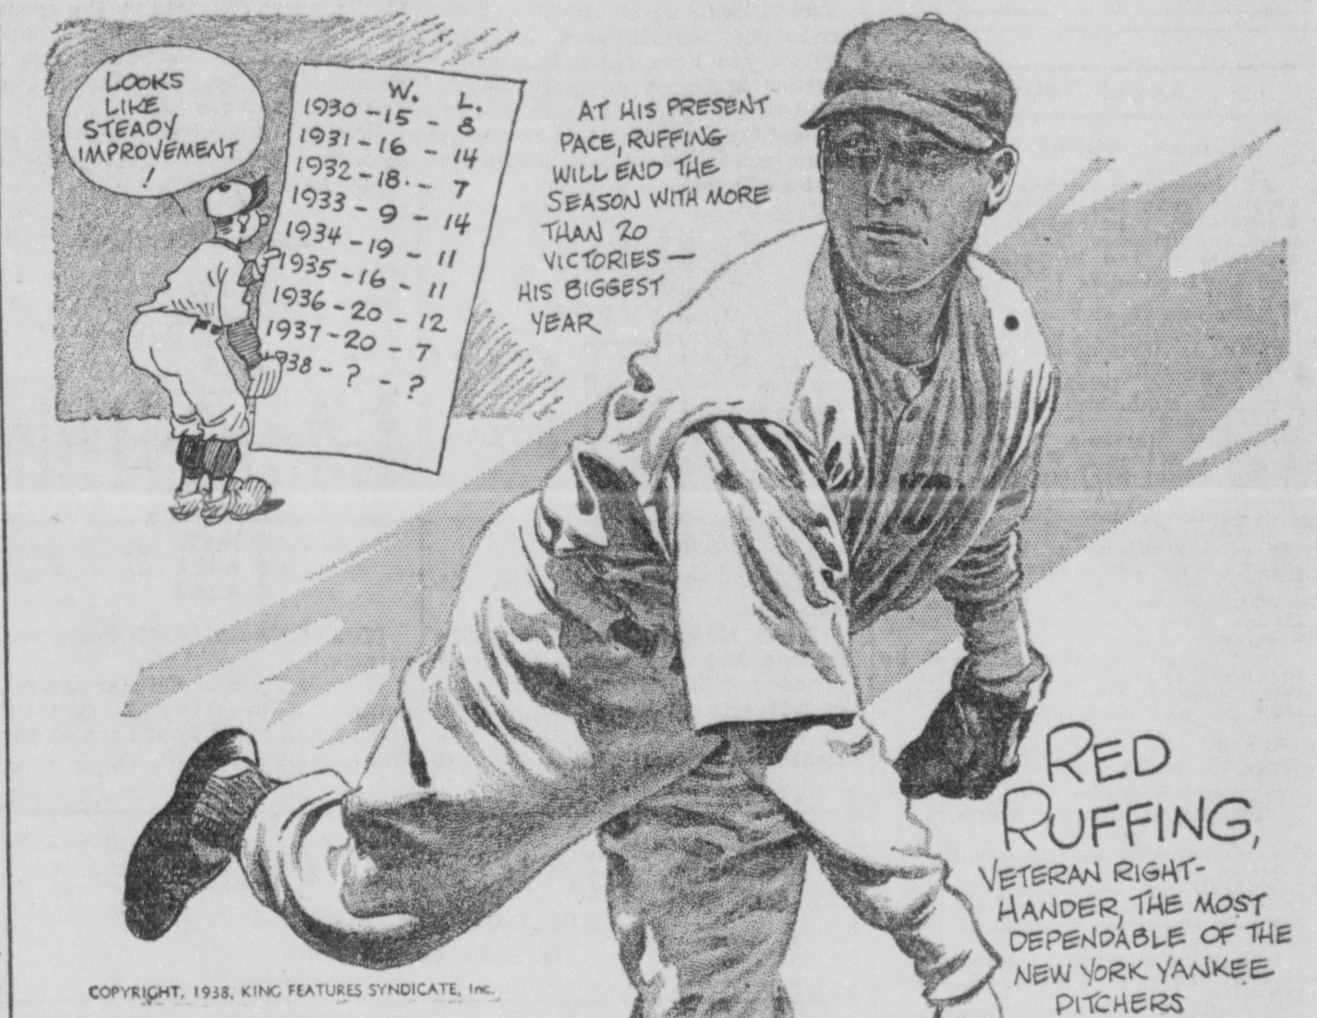

Pittsburgh divided a double-header with the Phillies, but gained ground on the Giants. After Al Hollingsworth blanked the Pirates, 11-0, in the first game, they came back to win the second, 4-1, behind the five-hit pitching of Russ Bauers. The last place Phils scored 10 runs in the fifth inning of the opener to drive Bob Klinger, league's leading hurler, to cover. The Phils led 1-0 in the second game until the sixth when Gus Suhr's homer tied the score. Then singles by Berres and Handley played the major role in scoring what proved to be the winning marker.

To Workhouse on Day Off

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Theodore Regan's employer gave him a day off so he could go to the workhouse. Regan, who pleaded guilty in traffic court to a speeding charge, told Judge Julius Kovachy that he could not go to the workhouse for three days as he would lose his job. The judge told him to ask his employer for one day off. The request was granted.

Several 15-Year Veterans Still Playing Good Baseball in Major Leagues Today

By WALTERS L. JOHNS
TIME MARCHES ON—and so do the veterans in the major leagues.

It's amazing to look at the records and discover, for example, that Charlie Ruffing, Yankee pitcher, now is hurling his fifteenth year in the major leagues. And much more astonishing is the fact that Charlie is pitching the best ball of his career right now, being among the leading pitchers. Charlie is 34 years old and has confined his entire major league career to the Yankees and Red Sox, with which team he broke in. The right-handed Yankee star has a life time average of 172 won and 177 lost.

Lyons in Sixteenth Year

From a list of 363 active baseball players in the majors today, our check of the records discloses that, besides Ruffing, 13 others still active today as players are either in their fifteenth major league year or have passed that mark.

Now you take Ted Lyons, 37, dean of the White Sox hurling corps. Ted is now pitching his sixteenth year in the majors—all with the Sox. Possessing a life time record of 198 won had 189 lost, Ted still is good for a staunch mound stand. Ted joined the Pale Hose from the campus of Baylor university in 1923.

Two other pitchers have passed their fourteenth season in the big time, Earl Whitehill of the Cleveland Indians and Charles Lucas of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Whitehill, 38, who still is a starting pitcher for the Tribe, has seen service with three clubs—Detroit, Washington and Cleveland—and has a life-time average of 205 won and 171 lost. This is his sixteenth season. Earl's best year was in 1923, when he bagged 22 victories to lead the Tigers to the flag.

Goslin Old-Timer

Red Lucas, 36, like Ruffing, is worthwhile with the stick, too, often being called upon to pinch hit. Red broke into the league with the Giants and went on to Boston, Cincinnati and then to Pittsburgh. Now in his fifteenth year, he has a life-time average on the mound of 151 won and 132 lost.

Barring Jimmy Dykes, rotund manager of the Chicago White Sox, who has just decided to give up active playing in his forty-first year, Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler of the Dodgers, Goose Goslin of the Senators and Luke Sewell of the White Sox lay claim to being the oldest veterans in the majors, each now playing their eighteenth season. Dykes, by the way, is in his twenty-first season.

Cuyler, who will be 39 August 3, has been with four clubs—Pittsburgh, Chicago Cubs, Cincy, and now Brooklyn. Currently batting only .264, Kiki has a life-time average of .323, one of the best of all time. Cuyler has been now, Charley Gehringer, Detroit's greatest of all second basemen, still is the same fielding whizz and power hitter of old. Gehringer, 35 years old, is hitting over .300 now and has a life-time mark of .329.

Second to Lou Gehrig for a life-time batting average, Al Simmons, Washington outfielder, now batting .307, boasts of a life-time mark of .342. Simmons, 35, has been with Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit and Washington. Simmons twice has led the league in batting, twice in total bases, twice in hits.

Our last 15-year man is little Tommy Thevenow, 34, who has seen service with St. Louis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Boston and now back with the Pirates. Tommy, very inactive now, has a life-time batting mark of .248.

Hartnett Still Stars

Luke Sewell, catcher of the White Sox, and for many years with Cleveland and Washington, has carried on despite weak hitting. Luke has been one of the better catchers in major league history. Sewell's meager life-time batting mark of .261 is offset by his worthiness as a backstop. A University of Alabama product, Luke is a brother of Joey, who now is a druggist.

Down the list of veterans we now come to Ossie Bluege of the Washington Nats and Charles (Gabby) Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs, each playing their seventeenth year.

Bluege, 37, has a life-time batting mark of .273. Hartnett, also 37, still the Cubs' No. 1 catcher, a .301 life mark. Bluege, for whom the Nats paid $3,500, never has hit .300 in his major league career. Hartnett, who has dropped only a couple of foul flies in his career, began his ball playing in Massachusetts as a semi-pro.

Mighty Lou Gehrig of the Yankees, and Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Phillies, are in their sixteenth season in the majors. Gehrig, only 35, has a remarkable life-time batting average of .344. He succeeded Wally Pipp at first base for the Yankees as far back as 1925, and hasn't missed a game since. Wilson, 38, July 23, spent most of his ball playing days with the Phillies, although he went to the Cardinals for a brief sojourn. He has a life-time batting mark of .285.

Gehringer Goes On

Three more men can boast of 15 years in the majors as an active player as this season draws to a close. In his fifteenth year outstanding as a fleet base runner.

Goslin, who broke in with Washington and then went to St. Louis, Detroit and now back with the Nats again, is 36. He plays only occasionally this season, but has a major life mark of .317.

Feller, Allen Both Slated To Face Yanks

NEW YORK, July 21—(UP)—Manager Oscar Vitt unfolded a bold pitching program here today in an effort to send his Indians thundering back into first place in the tight American league pennant race.

Vitt will send Johnny Allen and Bob Feller, his two outstanding right-handers, against the New York Yankees in a double-header today in an effort to sweep the three series.

The Indians won the series opener Tuesday to move to within one-half a game of the lead. Yesterday's scheduled twin bill was rained out.

After Cleveland completes its stand here it moves into Boston for the final stand against an eastern opponent. Vitt plans to shoot the works there also and has announced he will send Allen and Feller back against the Red Sox Sunday with only two days rest.

An earlier attempt to make Feller do an "iron man" stunt failed miserably. Vitt made the younger work three contests within an eight day period early in July and the Iowa schoolboy has never recovered fully from the strain placed upon him. How the second experiment will work out is a matter of conjecture.

The Indians must win both games today to move into first place. At least a split is essential for them to remain close to the lead.

A crowd of 70,000 was expected to see the bargain bill.

TITLISTS DROP FIRST TILT OF SECOND HALF

South Bloomfield Nine Drops Local Cleaners By 11 To 4 Count

Cain's food market, of South Bloomfield, defeated the Fenton Cleaners, recreation ball league first half titlists, Wednesday evening, in the first round of the second half. The score was 11 to 4 with the Cain crew driving over nine runs in the third inning to clinch the ball game.

Two home runs were clouted during the ball game, Roosevelt getting one for the winners and Hegele smacking one for the losing team.

The Bloomfield lads scored first in the second frame, but the Fenton outfit deadlocked the fray in the top of the third. The Cains batted around in the third frame to drive over nine markers. From that point on, the competition was tough but the best the cleaners could do was salvage a run in the fourth and two in the seventh session. The Bloomfield team tallied its last counter in the fourth, Bill Hegele tossing whitewash from that time on.

Erville Thomas was touched for nine safeties, but kept them scattered.

Tonight's game will be between the strengthened Bronzeville Jolliers and Blue Ribbon Dairy with the Eschelman Feeds and Glitt's food market booked for Friday.

A manager's meeting will be held in The Daily Herald office after the Friday game.

HARDENING CAMP PROPOSED FOR LOCAL GRIDDERS

Johnny Noggle, co-captain of the high school's 1938 football team, has a novel idea concerning conditioning that he hopes will gain some results. Johnny has located a camp near Mt. Sterling that he believes would provide an excellent "hardening up" site.

Noggle is urging all lettermen and others who seek places on the varsity squad next fall to attend a meeting in the rear room of Joe Arledge's store at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. It is possible that the co-captain will lead a group of gridders into camp for a week or two to strengthen some muscles and get the feel of a football.

Coach Roy Black has not yet indicated when he will call his squad for its first session.

GABBY TAKES OVER TASK OF LEADING CUBS

Hartnett Delighted With Own Good Fortune But Sorry For Charlie Grimm

CHICAGO, July 21—(UP)—A big, red-faced Irishman, delighted with his own good fortune but sad for the man he replaced, took over the job of managing the Chicago Cubs today after 17 years' service as the club's catcher.

Charles Leo Hartnett, 37, and Gabby, a man everybody likes, was made manager by owner Phil K. Wrigley, who, dissatisfied with the team's fourth place position in the national league standings, fired Charlie Grimm.

Hartnett, Grimm and several newspapermen were ushered into Wrigley's office, all sensing what was about to occur since rumors of a drastic change in the Cubs had been circulating for a week. "Gentlemen," Wrigley said, "I've decided to make Hartnett the manager."

The Cubs were five and a half games out of first, had lost their last game, which ended a seven-game winning streak. Grimm, a smile creeping slowly over his face, might have been thinking of an almost identical conference in 1932, when Wrigley announced that he was replacing Rogers Hornsby. The team then was six full games behind the league leader.

"Well, Leo," he said, "I sure hope you can win the pennant." With that club of 1932, Grimm produced a 14-game streak that landed it in the World Series with the New York Yankees. Wrigley felt that Hartnett's appointment would give the Cubs the same stimulation.

Grimm and Hartnett were expected to confer today and the meeting likely will be Grimm's last activity as a Cub. Although his contract runs until the end of 1938, his release was effective today. He will be paid for the full term of his contract.

Wrigley and Hartnett claimed to have made no arrangement as to Hartnett's salary as manager.

KANSAS CITY TAKES LEAD BY DEFEATING BIRDS

COLUMBUS, O., July 21—(UP)—The Kansas City Blues climaxed a long, uphill fight for the American Association lead today by moving into first place one-half a game ahead of St. Paul.

Beset with injuries to key players in late May and early June the Blues saw a comfortable lead dwindle and they fell out of first place when beaten in both ends of a double-header by Toledo on June 5.

Given pitching aid by the parent New York Yankees the Blues started a comeback drive two weeks ago and it was climaxed yesterday when they beat Columbus 8 to 2 to regain the lead.

Marvin Breuer, husky right-hander, was nipped for 11 hits by Columbus, but he kept the safeties well scattered. His mates clinched the game when they pounded Hal Kelleher for six rounds in the sixth inning.

St. Paul lost ground as it split a double-header with the cellar-dwelling Louisville Colonels. The Saints travelled 11 innings to snatch the opener 6 to 5 and then were beaten 8 to 6 in a five inning nightcap.

During the early 90's, many persons with unshapely legs wore "false calves" made of silk and sawdust.

All-Star football team which will meet the New York Giants in a charity game at the polo grounds, Sept. 7.

Kerr picked Marcel (Red) Chesbro, last year's captain and tackle, and Tommy Eck, center. Chesbro is ranked as one of the greatest linemen in Colgate history. He is exceptionally fast despite the 205-pounds he packs on a six foot frame. He is a three year regular, having made the Colgate eleven as a sophomore.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

BACK YOUR JUDGMENT
EVEN IF the suit is weak, a major contract with four trumps each in your own hand and dummy usually is preferable to no trump, especially if one of the two holdings is made up of unbalanced distribution containing a singleton. When you have bid a weak four-carder and your partner has supported it a couple of times, you can be doubly sure that he has enough trumps for safety and should forget no trump.

3-No Trumps. His insistence on No Trump was due to the fact that he felt North could not realize how weak the suit really was. He made a mistake by taking the contract into no trump, for a spade was led and won with East's K. This was followed by the spade 10 and then the 6, which South won with the A. He tried the club finesse and, when that failed, two more spades were lost. Had South allowed the hand to play in hearts, only three tricks would have been lost.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: Can you please tell me what is wrong with my phlox? The lower leaves are turning brown and dying, and the upper leaves are yellowing.

ANSWER: The lower leaves of the phlox are probably dying because of lack of sufficient moisture, together with the same thing which is causing the yellowing of the upper leaves—red spider. This is a tiny insect that you can hardly see without a magnifying glass, which is especially prevalent this season.

Although it is pretty late now to help the phlox, the spider can be killed by use of sulphur. Dusting sulphur should be applied with a regular dust gun. Ordinary powdered sulphur or flowers of sulphur such as you buy at the drug store is entirely too coarse so that you may have to hunt around until you find some dealer handling the specially prepared sulphur known as dusting sulphur. It is necessary to get it on the under-surface of the leaves where the majority of the spiders are. Incidentally, if you start doing this in late May or early June you will entirely protect the phlox from the attack of the red spider.

QUESTION: Shall I cut the tops of my peonies off now? ANSWER: Absolutely not, since it will prevent them storing the necessary food in the roots for proper bloom next year. The tops should be left on until fall when they normally start to die down.

QUESTION: My neighbor and myself are having quite a discussion as to how much we should pay for lawn grass seed. Why isn't the less expensive seed, sold by hardware stores, 5-and-10-cent stores, just as satisfactory as the more expensive? ANSWER: In buying lawn grass seed you usually get exactly what you pay for. You will find the cheaper packaged seeds not only contain but a small percentage of Kentucky bluegrass but also usually inferior grades of it with lower percentages of germination. They will contain a higher percentage of chaff, of weeds, and of less desirable grasses such as timothy, ryegrass and may even contain such pest grasses as orchard grass. You will seldom find that any lawn seed selling for less than 40 or 50 cents a pound is worth buying.

QUESTION: A number of branches of a Norway spruce that I planted in front of my house are turning grayish-brown. Can you suggest anything that might be wrong with them? ANSWER: Although it is impossible to say specifically what is wrong with them without seeing them, there is a pretty good chance that the spruce mentioned is infested with red spider. I have seen several instances in the past few weeks where entire plants of spruce and arborvitae especially have become severely injured with red spider in the period of a week or two that the owner has not noticed them. Although the plants are seriously weakened by this attack the spider may be killed as recommended above by a thorough dusting with sulphur. A second application in a few weeks' time may be necessary.

QUESTION: Some sort of worm is eating the foliage of my roses. Although I have sprayed regularly with Black Leaf 40 I was unable to kill it.

ANSWER: You have been unable to kill it because Black Leaf 40 is a spray designed for the control of soft-bodied insects such as plant lice, which are killed only by hitting them directly with this spray material. Any insect that is actually eating the foliage, such as worms, caterpillars, etc., is best killed by the application of poison which they eat with the plant. A standard material for this use is arsenate of lead. May I suggest that you ask your local county agricultural agent for a copy of our bulletin, Control of Garden Insects and Diseases, which should give you complete information on this subject.

MAYOR DECLARES FOR ENFORCEMENT OF PARKING LIMIT ORDINANCE

TOO MANY CITY CARS PARK TOO LONG, CADY SAYS

Rural Visitors Unable To Find Places For Autos In Business District

POLICEMEN GIVEN ORDERS

Fines To Follow Breaking Of Regulation Beginning Monday Morning

Two hour parking in the Circleville business district on all days except holidays and Sundays will become effective next Monday, Mayor W. B. Cady informed city council Wednesday evening.

"When I took office," Mayor Cady said, "I thought that the two hour limitation could be eliminated on all days except Saturday, but there are too many Circleville persons leaving their automobiles parked up town all day preventing rural visitors from finding places to put their vehicles."

The decree was made without any official sanction from council. President John C. Goeller holding that council's approval was not necessary. No statements were made by councilmen concerning the move.

The parking limitation law was voted during the administration of W. J. Graham, Cady's predecessor. When Mr. Cady took office last Jan. 1 he halted enforcement of the restriction except on Saturday.

Parking Lots Needed

"What Circleville needs is some parking lots near the business district," the mayor stated after he had discussed the parking situation with council. Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick will start checking parked cars every two hours next Monday beginning at 9 a. m.

The traffic light problem was discussed by Safety Director Karl J. Herrmann and several councilmen. The light at Main and Mingo streets, subject of much comment because it does not carry the usual amber warning sign, was the subject of the conversation. Mr. Herrmann told councilmen that he had asked a traffic light company official to visit Circleville to check up on the various devices. The visitor said that he could find nothing wrong with the Main-Mingo light and advised that council permit it to remain just as it is. The official and the safety director watched traffic pass the corner for some time and no motorist appeared confused by the immediate change from red to green and green to red.

Lights Considered

The safety director told council that he had inquired concerning purchase of a three-way light for the Northridge road and Court street intersection and learned that the lowest cost would be about $90. No action was taken on possible purchase of a light for this intersection although Mayor Cady has urged that a signal be placed at the corner in an effort to slow down traffic on Court street.

Council instructed the safety director to check up on the school zones to determine if proper warning signs are available to inform motorists that they are driving in districts where children will be likely to cross the highways. The check was urged before school opens.

When zinc first was discovered, it was considered more precious than platinum.

Council Calls Special Meet on Power Puzzle

Circleville council will meet in an adjourned session next Wednesday evening in an effort to clear up several problems at the municipal sewage disposal plant now under construction. The adjourned confab was decided on at Wednesday evening's meeting.

Only a misunderstanding concerning the use of the words "hours" and "kilowatt hours" in a proposed ordinance by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. for power at the disposal plant prevented passage of the legislation under suspension of rules. Several councilmen believed that reference to "hours" meant hours of the day, while others believed that the word meant kilowatt hours. If the latter belief is correct it is probable that council will vote the legislation at its special meeting.

Power is needed at the disposal plant to assist in some work being delayed because of lack of current. Engineer Floyd Browne of Marion told Solicitor Carl C. Leist in Columbus, Wednesday, that the ordinance had his approval.

The legislation would cover power for the next five years. An earlier offer asked a 10 year contract.

Three transformers would be installed, only two to be used at once, the third being available in case of emergency. A minimum charge would be $20 monthly under the ordinance. Rates offered are those set up as fair by the Ohio

Public Utilities commission. The cost for power would be six cents per kilowatt hour for the first 30 "hours" of the month. Council could not determine whether the offer meant 30 hours of the day or 30 kilowatt hours. Efforts to contact light company officials were fruitless. The next 30 hours would cost four cents each, the next 180 would be at two cents each and the remainder would be at 1½ cents each.

Solicitor Leist said that Engineer Browne estimated that the usual cost of operation each month would be about $90.

Another problem to be discussed at the adjourned meeting concerns labor at the project. Councilman Ben Gordon reported that several Circleville brick layers have informed him that they would not be given work because the contractors, Loomis and Son of Logan, were planning to employ only union workmen. A member of the firm will be invited to attend next

CHOICE CATTLE SELL HIGHER AT LOCAL AUCTION

Choice cattle demanded a slightly higher price at the Circleville livestock auction, Wednesday, than a week ago with choice stock still scarce. The bid for good steers and heifers was $9 to $10.15 compared with $9 to $9.50 a week ago. One hundred and forty-three head were offered.

Hog and calf prices were steady, 547 of the former being offered and 69 veals moving through the sale.

An Open Letter To Owners and Prospective Owners of Mechanical Refrigeration

Of all questions brought up concerning household refrigeration we have found the one about the relative cost of operation to be the most outstanding. That question has proved a difficult one for us to answer with any degree of certainty.

A few weeks ago, however, a test was completed and the results made known by Consumers' Research, Inc. of Washington, N. J. For your enlightenment we quote herewith excerpts from the report of this concern, as follows:

Table I

A comparison of refrigerator operating costs per month for electricity at 1 cents per kilowatt-hour at 70, 80, and 90 degrees F.

	Room Temperature in Degrees Fahrenheit
	70	80	90
Frigidaire Special 5-38	.65	.90	1.20
General Electric JB5-38	.70	1.05	1.45
Westinghouse HS-52	.85	1.10	1.35
Norge S-52-8	.90	1.35	1.75
Kelvinator KS6-38	1.00	1.40	1.75
Williams Ice-O-Matic DA-38-51	1.25	1.85	2.45
Electrolux Gas Refrigerator J-500-A (at 6.82¢ per therm, a common rate, equivalent to a natural gas of 1100 Btu per cu. ft. at 75¢ per 1000 cu. ft.)	1.10	1.20	1.30

"In the table given the monthly cost is determined for operating the refrigerator without opening the door."

"It has been learned from experience that the cost of operating a refrigerator loaded with food in the home and used under average conditions will often be close to the figures in the second column and usually not exceed the figures in the third column."

"The refrigerators used in the test were 5 cu. ft. models with the exception of Kelvinator, which was a 6 cu. ft. model."

"The refrigerators tested were, in general, refrigerators among the 'economy' lower priced models, lacking in a few gadgets but differing in no essential way from the more expensive 'standard' models."

WILLIAM MADER SERVES 50 YEARS AS FIRE CHIEF

William F. Mader, of Bucyrus, distantly related to the Circleville Mader family, observed his fiftieth anniversary this week as chief of the fire department in that city. He was appointed chief after a short service as a fireman.

Never in his 50 years of service as chief has Bucyrus suffered a major blaze. None ever spread beyond the building in which it started. Many Bucyrus residents attribute the fact that the city's fire loss is so small to Mr. Mader's diligence in checking up fire traps. He makes regular tours to alleys and buildings to eliminate rubbish and debris that might cause fire loss.

More than 150 friends and associates were hosts at a banquet Tuesday evening in his honor.
